

Description

Roman sculpture of Rea Silvia was found in the excavations of the Roman theater in Cartagena (Spain), ancient city of Cartago Nova. It is a sculpture carved in marble of Luni that represents Rea Silvia, daughter of Aeneas. Rea Silvia is considered the mother of Romulus and Remus, founders of Rome. This sculpture is dated to the end of the 1st century BC.

3D model created in Reality Capture software from 45 images. Additional processing was completed in Geomagic Wrap, InstantMeshes, and Blender

Specifications

Country: Spain

Region: Murcia

Age: Antiquity

Internal ID: Mesh_Model_8

Digitization date: 13/02/2018

Digitization method: Photogrammetry

Photos / scans number: 45

Hardware: Canon EOS 5D Mark IV

Lens: Canon EF 16-35 mm f/2.8L

Postprocessing: Bart McLeod and Jeff Du Vernay

Model URL:

https://globaldigitalheritage.org/model/roman-sculpture-rea-silvia-cartagena-spain-mesh_model_8/