

Description

Roman sculpture of Rea Silvia was found in the excavations of the Roman theater in Cartagena (Spain), ancient city of Cartago Nova. It is a sculpture carved in marble of Luni that represents Rea Silvia, daughter of Aeneas. Rea Silvia is considered the mother of Romulus and Remus, founders of Rome. This sculpture is dated to the end of the 1st century BC.

3D model created in Reality Capture software from 45 images. Additional processing was completed in Geomagic Wrap, InstantMeshes, and Blender

Specifications

Country: Spain

Region: Murcia

Material: Marble

Age: Antiquity

Provenance: Cartegenia Museum Sculpture

Internal ID: Cartegenia_Sculpture

Digitization date: 13/02/2018

Digitization method: Photogrammetry

Photos / scans number: 45

Hardware: Canon EOS 5D Mark IV

Lens: 29 mm

Lighting: Interior

Model URL: https://globaldigitalheritage.org/model/roman-sculpture-rea-silvia-cartegenia_sculpture/