

Description

The medieval tower of Bujarrabal is located in the town of the same name, currently belonging to Sigüenza (Spain). This tower was built in the Islamic period, possibly in the 10th century, to control the roads that pass through this area of the Iberian Peninsula. To improve its visual control, it was built at the highest point of the hill it occupies. It has a rectangular ground plan and is built with sandstone ashlars.

416 terrestrial images processed in Reality Capture.

Specifications

Country: Spain

Region: Castilla-La Mancha

Age: Medieval

Provenance: sigüenza

Digitization method: Photogrammetry

Photos / scans number: 416

Model URL: <https://globaldigitalheritage.org/model/islamic-tower-of-bujarrabal/>