

Description

Carranque is the site of a 4th century Roman villa that is protected as an archeological park by the Castile-La Mancha government. This villa contains some of the best preserved mosaics in Spain. Across the floors of the villa are mosaics depicting the death of Adonis, two dogs named Leander and Titurus, and most recognized, the god Oceanus, featuring crab antennas and claws and a wavy beard.

Specifications

Country: Spain

Region: Castilla-La Mancha

Site: Carranque Archaeological Park

Age: Antiquity

Provenance: Carranque Archaeological Park

Digitization method: Photogrammetry/Laser Scanner

Photos / scans number: 4725

Model URL: <https://globaldigitalheritage.org/model/roman-villa-of-carranque/>